EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Mexican Border Raids become more Bold.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The New Orleans Republican's San Antonio special says Gens. Hatch and Davis, U. S. A., arrived from the Rio Grande to-day. They report that raids are becoming more and more bold and frequent, murders are constantly occurring, and the civil authorities on this side are under the control of Mexicans and prevent United States troops from making arrests. Unless summary measures are taken the country between the Rio Grande and Nueces will soon be in the hands of Mexican outlaws.

St. Louis Democrat is Merged in the Globe.

CHICAGO, May 12.—A St. Louis special says the Democrat of that city has been absorbed by the Globe and the paper is under the management of J. B. McCullough of the latter paper and will hereafter be published under the name of the Globe-Democrat and will be a strong supporter of the administration.

Threatened with Assassination for Unearthing Frauds.

CHICAGO, May 12.—A special from St. Louis says Myron Colony, the commercial editor of the Democrat, who had been very active in unearthing the recent whisky frauds, has received information that he will be assassinated unless he leaves town before Saturday night.

Death of Breckinridge Expected.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—A Lexington dispatch just received, says John C. Breckinridge is sinking rapidly and death may be expected any moment. A difficult surgical operation was performed upon him yesterday by Dr. Hayes of Philadelphia and Dr. Sayres, of New York, which it was hoped would afford him permanent or at least temporary relief, but since morning he has been failing. His physicians think his illness is the result of a blow received from a fragment of shell during the war.

John C. Breckinridge Dying.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 12.—9 P. M.—Gen. Breckinridge is still alive, but sinking so rapidly that death cannot be long delayed.

A great many delegates from different States have already arrived here to participate in the reunion to be held during the next three days, and for which extensive preparations have been made.

Election of Directors of the Denver Pacific Road.

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—At a meeting of stockholders of the Denver and Pacific railroad at Denver, on Monday the following directors were elected: R. E. Carr, D. A. Moffitt, J. D. Perry, C. S. Greeley, W. R. Loomis Jr., Jay Gould, Sidney Dillon, G. M. Dodge and Oliver Ames.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, May 12.—The market generally is unchanged, with a fair demand from manufacturers who only buy as their necessities require. Prices rule low and unsatisfactory for all fine wools but medium grades sustain previous rates. There is a very indifferent feeling on the part of manufacturers and the future of the market is not very encouraging. The spring demand for goods has proved a decided failure. Sales of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces range from 52 to 57 cents for XXX and medium grades, Michigan fleeces from 48 to 52½ cents, and combing and Delaine from 60 to 68 cents. Pulled wool has been in demand at 42@4[illegible] cents for common and choice superiors and extras are as much inquired for. California wool has been in fair demand at 2[illegible]@35 cents for spring and 16@28 cents for fall.

Annual Meeting of the American Tract Society.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The fiftieth annual meeting of the American Tract Society was held to-day at Dr. Crosby's church, Judge Strong presiding. The officers of the Association were all re-elected with slight changes made necessary by the death of members during the past year. Publications for circulation among the destitute, including annuities which have been granted, amount to fifty two thousand dollars.

Tornado—Schoolhouse Destroyed and Child Killed.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., May 12.—A tornado struck the village of Fort Covington, Franklin county, this afternoon. Several buildings were demolished and many unroofed. The roof of the brick school house was torn off and the walls blown down, causing the death of a little girl and the injury of several other scholars.

Canal Tolls Reduced.

ALBANY, May 12.—The Senate passed the concurrent resolution providing for low tolls on canals.

Failure of Contractors to Supply Indian Agencies.

OCKMULGEE, Indian Territory, May 12.—General J. F. C. Sharks, special Indian commissioner now here, denies the truth of the story that he had stated to the Indian bureau that the failure to get supplies for the Indians from Caddo to Fort Sill, Cheyenne and Wichita agencies was the impassable condition of the roads. He says the roads were good the entire summer, fall and winter, and that the contractors who supplied traders had no trouble in getting goods through and filling that part of their contracts. Sharks says the Indians suffer from the bad conduct of white scoundrels, who seek to rob them and the government at the same time.

Important Decision on Railway Tariffs.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 12.—Judge Dillon, of the U. S. circuit court, to-day rendered an opinion affirming the validity of the Iowa railroad tariff act of March 23, 1874, in its application to the Burlington and Missouri River road, now operated by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway. This is the first decision in the State by a Federal court on the subject. The decision rests upon two grounds—First, that the State never made any grant to the company in its charter of exclusive right to fix its own tolls, and second, if it did, the right was surrendered by the company to the State when it accepted the land grant in July, 1856, agreeing that the State might thereafter enact such rules and regulations in respect to the company as it saw fit, not inconsistent with that act and the act of Congress making the grant.

More of the Seizures at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, May 12.—There have been twelve distilleries and rectifying houses seized in this city and vicinity. Four of these have applied to the U. S. court and secured permission to resume operations upon giving the bonds required by law. As fast as the establishments can be appraised they are turned over to the custody of the U. S. marshal. Some of the distillers whose property has been seized threaten to bring suits for damages.

How Senator Spencer Manipulated a Legislature.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 12.—The legislative committee investigating the election of U. S. Senator Spencer took a recess to-day. The testimony so far adduced, shows that Spencer secured the presence of United States troops in Alabama for the avowed purpose of intimidating Democratic voters. That after the election of the Legislature it was found that Democrats would control it and in consequence the so-called court house Legislature was organized. That money was used to bribe the Republican members opposed to Spencer and this money was obtained from United States officials. The clerk of the courthouse Legislature and one of Spencer's confidential aids testified to all these facts, and that in addition to himself J. J. Hinds and C. C. Sheats were employed constantly in Spencer's interest and that members of the Legislature were bribed with money and appointments and promises of appointments, State and Federal.

The Miners become Ungovernable—Workmen Mobbed and their Houses Sacked.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 12.—About nine hundred men and women went to Fisher's and Whitehead's mines to-day and compelled the miners to suspend operations, and then sacked their houses and appropriated valuables. The strikers have become ungovernable and declare all new men must and shall leave that region. If the men had resisted blood would have been shed freely. The sheriff had promised to be in attendance to protect the new men, but owing to some cause not fully explained he did not come. The successes of the mob for the last two days threaten to cause the suspension of business. Miners propose to clean out every bank operated.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Notice to Mariners.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The following notice to mariners relative to the discovery of additional peaks at Noonday rock at the entrance to San Francisco bay, has been issued from the U. S. coast survey office: Lieutenant Wheedon, corps of engineers, U. S. A., in making a preliminary examination of Noonday rock, by means of a diver, for the purpose of ultimately removing the rock, discovered in its immediate proximity two pinnacles above which there is but fourteen feet of water at mean [illegible] and with deep water between them, the channel [illegible] with Noonday rock, [illegible] which has already been determined [illegible] the coast survey and [illegible] continue to be marked by buoys. It is quite possible that an irregular ridge may connect the two peaks of rock with the north. All large vessels are warned not to attempt to pass between until a more thorough examination has been executed.

Protests Against the Award of Tobacco Contracts.

NEW YORK, May 12.—A number of protests against the recent awards by Indian commissioners of contracts for supplying tobacco have been made by unsuccessful bidders. Among them are the well known houses of P. Lorillard & Co. and Dohan, Carroll & Co. of this city and Dohan & Tait of Philadelphia. The persons who protest claim that the leaf inspector appointed by the commissioner was incompetent to judge correctly of the various conditions and qualities of plug tobacco, and that the inspection was irregular, the inspector having taken out samples for consultation. Commissioner Smith says the entire trouble was that the contract had been awarded outside the city and brokers and others engaged in the trade were given a disappointment. It would be hard to get any one connected with the New York trade who would not have his own personal prejudice. The tobacco which Prof. Marsh had found fault with was bought in New York and had been passed by a broker who styled himself an expert. The commissioner had determined to take no further action in the case but hold the contractors to a strict interpretation of both the spirit and letter of the contract. The investigating committee suggested by Prof. Marsh's disclosures has been already appointed and one of the committee is now making investigations in the Indian country.

Rumored Retirement of Secretary Fish.

CHICAGO, May 12.—A Washington special asserts positively that Secretary Fish's retirement from the cabinet at the close of the fiscal year is certainly determined on, and quotes from an editorial in the National Republican, which the correspondent says emanated from the White House, which reviews in highly complimentary terms Fish's record as secretary and plainly intimates his retirement as a settled thing.

Additional Distilleries Seized.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The secretary of the treasury was to-day informed of additional seizures of distilleries. A searching investigation will be made into the conduct of supervisors and other prominent internal revenue officials and all against whom charges have been or may be preferred, with the view to secure the prompt punishment of the guilty parties engaged in the whisky frauds.

American Gaslight Association.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The semi annual meeting of the American Gaslight Association was held to-day at Willard's Hall. Seventy five members were present representing all parts of the country and Canada.

Requested to Resign.

It is reported that Col. Sneals, sixth auditor of the treasury, has been requested to resign.

Visitor to the Naval Academy.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Among those designated by the secretary of the Navy as a board of visitors to meet at the Naval Academy in June is Prof. Egan D. C[illegible], of California.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Nothing is known at the Executive Mansion of the reported probable resignation of Secretary Fish at the end of the present fiscal year.

The New Commissioner.

Ex-Senator Pratt called on the President and Secretary Bristow to-day and subsequently visited the internal revenue office where he had a consultation with Douglass. He has not decided when to formally enter upon duty as commissioner but will do so probably within a week. His commission was signed to-day.

An Opinion on Bounty Claims.

The Attorney General, in response to an inquiry from the secretary of War, gives an opinion that the enrollment before the proclamation and orders mentioned in the act of April 22, 1872, does not preclude a claim for bounty where a company or regiment was mustered into the military service prior to July 22, 1861, under said proclamation and orders.

Land Office Decision Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Secretary of the Interior has confirmed the decision of the land office in the case of Hodgen and Wheeler against the State of California, that the 16th and 36th sections did not pass to the State of California by virtue of the act of March 3, 1853. The point decided is that coal lands do not pass to the State under that act.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Dissatisfied with their Mail Contracts.

PARIS, May 12.—In the Assembly to-day M. Guichard introduced a resolution disapproving of the contracts for carrying mails made by the Government with transatlantic companies. He moved the resolution be declared urgent and the Assembly agreed to the motion. It was stated on the part of the French postal department that the government would soon settle the question.

Demonstration Against an Old Catholic School.

BERLIN, May 1[illegible].—A crowd of women menaced the Old Catholic school house in Konigshutte, Silesia, yesterday, declaring they would never allow their children to become Old Catholics. After much excitement the military were called out and cleared the streets, which were full of spectators. Twenty persons were arrested.

Germany Takes Charge of the Survivors of the Schiller.

One Hundred Mormon Immigrants Coming.

The steamer Wyoming for New York sailed with 100 Mormon converts from Wales.

The Speck of War Vanishes.

BERLIN, May 12.—The North German Gazette says: We can give assurance that the relations of Germany and France have at no time since the war been more friendly and satisfactory than they now are. Provincial Correspondence, a semi official journal, declares that Germany desires peace and is able to rely on a union with a powerful neighbor to repress any possible foreign ambition aiming at its disturbance.

The War Question.

BERLIN, May 12.—The Deutsche Allgemeine Correspondenz, which is considered a well informed journal, says the expediency of mobilizing the German army was seriously discussed here during the visit of the Emperor of Austria. As Austria and Italy do not at present seem inclined to join France, apprehensions are allayed.

The military affairs of France and Belgium and the movements of the ultramontanes are still closely watched from Berlin. There is a general recognition that Germany's temperate policy in this is [illegible] guaranteed that an understanding will be effected and all fears dispelled.

THE TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL.

NEW YORK, May 12.—At the opening of the Brooklyn court to-day, Evarts asked for a short delay as he was expecting some papers about which he wished to ask Tilton some questions, and didn't want to put another witness on the stand until he was disposed of. Seated on the bench with Judge Neilson is Robert McKenzie of Dundee, Scotland. The interval of waiting for the arrival of papers was occupied by the lawyers in consulting and examining the testimony of different witnesses.

Shearman escorted

Mrs. Woodhull

Into the court room at about 11:[illegible] and upon taking his place he said that Mrs. Woodhull had refused to produce certain letters of Tilton's unless under instructions from the court.

Fullerton said he hoped the court would not instruct her, and Judge Neilson declined to give witness any instruction.

Evarts said the subpena called for the production of papers in court.

Fullerton argued that Mrs. Woodhull was summoned as a witness, not as an expressman, and read the subpena commanding her to appear in court [illegible].

Judge Neilson [illegible] he could give no directions. He [illegible] according to the subpena [illegible] Mrs. Woodhull was not compelled to deliver those papers to counsel on the other side. Judge Neilson—Do you have an interest in it? Mr. Fullerton, to which the latter replied, No, but when Evarts places her on the stand as a witness, I will have an interest in it. After some further questions from legal authorities Judge Neilson said the papers might be given up if she has no personal objection.

Shearman then called Mrs. Woodhull and held a brief conversation with her, after which she addressed the court and stated that the letters in her possession were in no way discreditable to her or the party who wrote them. She had been imprisoned several times for publishing this scandal, and while there her offices had been ransacked and papers taken, some of which were in the hands of the defense and others with the prosecution. With this explanation she said she was content to deliver up the papers, which she did, and they were closely examined by the counsel. While the lawyers were examining the correspondence, Mrs. Woodhull sat right in front of Mrs. Beecher.

Evarts, after a [illegible] not [illegible] examine [illegible] the clerk.

Fullerton argued that Tilton [illegible] be called, however the process [illegible] a great disadvantage [illegible] being called [illegible] period as the papers [illegible] be beyond the jurisdiction of this court.

Judge Neilson thought that when the other side called Tilton they should also have Mrs. Woodhull in attendance.

Francis D. Moulton

Was then recalled and testified that in his interview with Beecher on the 30th December, 1870, in reference to the delivery of the retraction letter, he (witness) never said to him that he should take a generous view and act for the interest of all parties concerned. In the interview of Jan. 1st, 1871, he never said to Beecher that Elizabeth loved his little finger better than Tilton's whole body. After witness wrote the letter of contrition he gathered up the paper so that Beecher might read them. The letter was read before it was signed. He never said to Beecher that after it got out he would burn it. Do not remember of having suggested to Beecher in his dictation to see if I had taken it down correctly. The letter was finished before it was read. Never had Beecher's portrait at my house in Clinton street. Never said to Beecher in June, 1871, it was a grand thing it would be if Tilton and he could join forces, or he (Moulton) [illegible]. Never said that he had [illegible] friends, [illegible] that Tilton was being crushed to earth and had no friends. Did not treat him with coldness and severity on that day and don't think I ever had such an interview as Beecher described. Was ill at my house at that time. In the fall of 18[illegible] or in February, 1872, learned that Beecher told Tilton of the [illegible]. Didn't ask Beecher to appear before the arbitration committee to effect a settlement of difficulties. Talked about a settlement of the difficulties between Tilton and Bowen, but not between Tilton and Beecher. Didn't suggest to Bowen on the night of June 1, 1872, that Kinsella should be sent for, and at an interview on May 31, 1872, Beecher didn't denounce Tilton. On the night of December 30, 1870, and at the interview between Tilton and Beecher the latter expressed a desire that Bowen should sign the draft of the tripartite agreement. Not a word was said between the arbitrators other than about the business difficulties between Tilton and Bowen.

Court here took a recess.

After recess Beach said that when Mrs. Moulton was on the stand he had intended to recall her. On conversing with her she said if she was on the stand she would swear she did not say to Beecher she would not believe the stories told of him, but that she believed he was a good man. Counsel stated that the lady was ill and not able to appear in court, and counsel on the other side had offered to accept this statement as if given in evidence by Mrs. Moulton. Evarts agreed to this.

Moulton then resumed the witness stand. He testified that he did not tell Beecher in reference to Bessie Turner's school bills that it would be a good thing to help Tilton by paying them. Moulton then left the witness stand without cross examination, and

Stephen Pearl Andrews

Was recalled and identified the signature of Col. Blood signed to the lease of offices of Mrs. Woodhull in 48 Broad street from the 1st of May, 1870, to the 1st of May, 18[illegible].

Cross examined—He did not remember what day Mrs. Woodhull moved from 44 Broad street, but thought it was in the latter part of May, 1870. This concluded Andrews' testimony and he took his seat among the audience.

A long intermission ensued, which was broken by Beach saying: "We rest here if your honor please."

Sub-Rebuttal.

Defense began their sub rebuttal by recalling

James Freeland,

Who testified that he knew Bowen and Beecher and they were both at my house on the 26th of December, 1870. They were at my house in January, 1870. I did not receive a note from Bowen on the 6th of December, 1870, asking him to make an appointment with Beecher on that day. Bowen was not at his house on that day. Remembered the interview between Bowen and Beecher at his house in January, 1870. Recollect when the arbitrators met at his house, but on that occasion did not see the following paper: "We agree to submit to Jas. Freeland, H. B. Claflin and Charles Storrs the question as to the amount of money due Tilton from the Independent and Brooklyn Union in full for all claims and demands to date, and to abide by their decision. Signed by Bowen and Tilton."

Cross examination—Knew Beecher and Bowen were at his house in January, 1870. Was not in January, 1871. Was sure that Beecher and Bowen were at his house to arrange difficulties. The prayer meeting was at the end of January, 1870, and this was the first time Bowen had attended for a long time. Did not remember having an interview with Bowen in 1870 or receiving a note from him on that date. Know Bowen's son. Couldn't say whether he received a note by any of them that day. Have received business notes through Bowen's sons but have not any of them now. Did not think Bowen was at his house December, 1870. Did not remember Bowen calling at his house other than on New Year's day since January, 1870. Did not think he called at his house since January, 1870, when he was absent. Couldn't say whether Beecher was in his house in December, 1870. Did not send any note or message to Beecher that month and year. Had often sent messages to Beecher but didn't remember when or how often. Did not remember seeing Beecher December, 1870. May have called on him then and forgotten it. Am 7[illegible] years of age, and my recollection is not so good as it once was. Didn't remember Bowen sending him a note through his son in December, 1870.

Shearman showed witness the paper of submission said to have been submitted at the arbitration, and witness said he never saw it before, and no person, on the 3d of April, 1872, showed him that paper or any part of it. To Mr. Fullerton—Do not remember hearing anything about this paper then. Remember Bowen being there, but don't remember what either he or Tilton said. Suppose there were some papers there of which I didn't know the contents, and this may have been one of them. To Mr. Shearman—I remember the last prayer meeting in January, 1870. Bowen was there and I asked a number of gentlemen to shake hands with him. Never brought about any other interview than the one in January, 1870, between Beecher and Bowen. To Fullerton—Requested Howard and Shearman to shake hands at that meeting.

Mrs. Ovington

Was then recalled and testified to have been acquainted with Albert B. Martin. Visited my house frequently. When Mrs. Tilton was there on 28th July, 1874, he was there when Tracy and Miss Turner were there. Martin came shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Tracy came in a few minutes before Martin. Mr. Martin or Tracy were not in the house at half past two o'clock that afternoon, and Miss Turner at that hour was in the parlor playing on the piano to Ovington, Mrs. Tilton and myself. I can swear to this. It is not true that Tracy left the house shortly after 3 o'clock that afternoon, and it is not true that Tilton and Mrs. Martin were on the back piazza of the house for at least two hours during Tracy's interview with Bessie Turner. It is not true that the only discussion that afternoon after Tracy's departure was on Bessie Turner's evidence before the court. The piazza of my house is the hottest part between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 in the afternoon. It is directly exposed to the sun in the afternoon. There is a clock in Mrs. Tilton's room, but it had not then been running for four years. Tracy left at 6 o'clock, and Martin and I had tea a few minutes after. In the conversation I had with Tilton on the back piazza of our house I said nothing about his piazza being excluded enough for his family, nor that Mrs. Tilton had to give up the coolest room in the house, nor did I observe that that was one of the consequences of the [illegible].

Cross examined—The interview between Tracy and Bessie Turner lasted less than an hour in the back parlor. After Tracy's departure nothing was said on the subject of Bessie Turner's testimony before the committee.

Court adjourned.

Good News.

It is generally believed all the testimony will be in to-morrow.

OREGON

R. M. May, county treasurer of Polk county, died at Dallas on last Tuesday.

An unusually busy season is at hand with Willamette valley farmers, and they are doing their full share to help Oregon out of her dependent condition.

The body of the man lately drowned in the Santiam while driving logs was found last Sunday about six miles below where the accident happened. His name was Robert Daguel.

The Record says Mr. Charles McCown, who lives on Crooked Finger Prairie near the Clackamas and Marion line, had forty head of sheep killed by wolves one night last week. The settlers there had an idea that wolves were not to trouble them.

A gentleman who was at [illegible] last week says that there was so little business on the court calendar to occupy all the time of the judge and lawyers for a whole week. Most of the business was [illegible] and there being but one criminal [illegible] in that the jury found the defendant not guilty. This was a case where a man was accused of branding his neighbor's calf.

Mr. Minto of Salem thinks an exploring and surveying party might go to work now in the Santiam Pass and find no snow to hinder their work, also that if ever a survey is made for the purpose of a railroad the Pass will be found to offer such easy facilities for grade and construction as compared with the Columbia river valley, that the incidental branch will be the first constructed through the Cascade Mountains.

NEVADA.

Double Murder—Arrest of the Murderers

AUSTIN, May 11.—At noon to-day Sheriff Emery and Marshal Day arrived in town with Luiga Boderaco, the Silver Age ranch murderer. A large crowd accompanied the officers and prisoner to the court house, where he was locked up. On arriving at the ranch the officers struck his trail and followed it towards the ranch of John Thomas on Reese river, thence to Washington Canyon, Thomas accompanying him. Went thence to the ranch of an Italian named Mateo in Cottonwood Canyon. It was supposed the fugitive would be there, but not finding him, concluded he would be there during the night. They accordingly lay in wait for him in the house. About 1 o'clock this morning Day heard footsteps outside, and a rap at the door. Thomas looked through the window and saw the visitor was Boderaco. Thomas got a shotgun and opened the door, covering Boderaco, while the officers jumped and leveled their pistols. He seemed perfectly unconcerned, entered the door, pushing aside the gun held by Thomas. Day seized and held him while the sheriff clapped on the irons. The party then proceeded to Washington, thence about twenty miles to Thomas' ranch, where they breakfasted, and after three hours rest started for town, arriving as above stated. The prisoner, who shows signs of having been roughly handled, accuses Guisepi of the crime, his statement being in effect that he (Boderaco) got into a scuffle with McCreery, who had him on the floor beating him. He cried for assistance and Guisepi came in and cried out "I'll fix him," got an axe, and the next Boderaco knew Beal was lying on the floor dead and McCreery wounded. They looked for Guisepi, and not finding him became frightened and fled, sleeping out during the day and going to Mateo's nights, where he was caught. The coroner held an inquest on the bodies of Beal and McCreery last evening. The testimony of Guisepi was to the same effect as the story related by him on first coming into town with the news of the murder. After hearing some additional evidence the jury returned a verdict that deceased came to their death from axe wounds inflicted by parties unknown.

WORKING MEN AND THEIR MONEY

[From the N. Y. Times.]

The accounts which we have published at various times of the remarkable success of the building associations of Philadelphia have naturally aroused much interest in various parts of the country. The question is frequently asked if six hundred associations can be formed by the mechanics and working men of Philadelphia and one hundred and fifty millions of their hard earned savings be placed in them with profit, so that almost every mechanic of that city has his own house, why cannot such companies be formed elsewhere? Why must the day laborer, mechanic and small tradesman pay away each year in useless rent what in a good building association would make him owner of his house? Why cannot by these ingenious arrangements for co-operation the laboring class become capitalists? Why should the profit of handling all the vast savings of the working classes be left to savings banks or other similar associations? Why cannot working people invest and reinvest their own savings?

It is well known that in Germany an immense system of mutual popular banks, called the "Delitzsch Loan Associations," has been founded by the laboring class itself, and that the continual loaning and turning over of the funds of these banks to working people on real estate security has been a great source of profit to the banks, and an especial assistance to the working people themselves. Thus, a working man wishing to start a trade, and having both the skill and the acquaintance necessary, need only obtain a loan from a Delitzsch Bank to begin a profitable business. This he can obtain if he be a member of the co-operative association and can furnish good security. This mutual banking arrangement has reached an immense development in Germany, and seems to correspond to the building association movement which has sprung up so quietly and has been so successful in Pennsylvania.

Our great object, of course, is not to throw any discouragement upon such efforts of the laboring people. On the contrary, we think these are at the foundation of all true and permanent success among the working classes. They are self help in its best form; they demand intelligence, self control, economy and the foregoing immediate gratification for an ultimate good; they train the laborers to govern themselves and to manage money. But there is against them a great and powerful obstacle, that is, that the gift of managing money is a rare one among all classes, and when discovered commands the highest remuneration. It is not probable that these building associations can often find among the mechanics men able to borrow and lend money judiciously. If they do pick up a man with the true investing talent and pay him their usual salary, three or four hundred a year, they are merely enjoying valuable services as a charity, and that is not a good basis for a permanent business. The probability would be, however, that not one person in a hundred or perhaps in a thousand among the mechanics would have the talent for investing another person's money safe and profitably.

The experience in Pennsylvania is certainly a remarkably hopeful and encouraging one. It is possible that a considerable class of investors or bankers have already been trained up among the mechanics, but the probability is that the building movement came in on the wave of advancing prices after the opening of the war, so that all the investments of the associations were made for a long time on a rising market, and in consequence were successful. The commencing fall of prices has already injured some of the associations, and we expect to hear of other losses as prices fall toward hard pan. The experience in Connecticut of building associations was peculiarly disastrous. In the year 1850, under an act somewhat like that which is proposed by Hon. Josiah Quincy to the Massachusetts State Legislature, a large number of building associations were incorporated among the working people of Connecticut. Considerable capital was withdrawn from the savings banks and put into them, great numbers of small houses were erected by them for mechanics and laborers—but nearly all the associations came to a disastrous end. The houses were returned to the associations and were sold at low prices at auction. The buildings themselves proved often poor and worthless; the funds of the associations were lost or wasted, and finally the whole scheme burst as a speculative bubble.

THE STEAMBOAT DISASTER

PARTICULARS RELATING TO THE DESTRUCTION OF THE EXPORTER—EXCITEMENT OF THE SPECTATORS—VIVID DESCRIPTION OF THE SCENE.

The Cincinnati Commercial contains particulars of the recent dreadful disaster at New Orleans.

The hawser of the Bodmann had been cut in an effort, it is presumed, to get her out of the way ere the Kyle could reach her. This proved futile, and the Bodmann, all in flames, floated up against the Pittsburg packet Exporter, Captain John S. Conway, which had been in some days from Cincinnati. The owner, Mr. James Rees, Sr., with several members of his family, his wife, his son, his son's wife, his two unmarried daughters and a married daughter, with other Pittsburgh ladies, had come down on the Exporter from Cincinnati to see New Orleans in its spring time days. A party of ladies had also got on board at Mt. Vernon, on the Ohio river. Several musicians were engaged at Louisville, and the excursionists came down the river full of life and gayety. One of the Pittsburgh ladies, Mrs. Musgrave, Mr. James Rees' married daughter, will never see her home again. Many of the people from the Bodmann had jumped on board the Exporter, and many people from the shore had rushed on the latter boat, doubtless led by curiosity and little dreaming of what awaited them. The Exporter too was speedily in flames; her hawser was cut and she, with the two other burning boats, driven by the wind and the upward tending eddy, drifted out into the stream. The spectacle to the thousands of horror stricken spectators on the shore was fearfully grand as well as blood curdling. The surface of the river was dotted with human beings, some swimming, some grasping at planks, appalling screams and cries rending the air. The mass of victims had gathered on the bow of the Exporter, the space between the pilot-house and the jackstaff looking black from the shore with the unfortunate ones. The flames roared and swept to and fro, as the two boats swung out into the river, and the multitude, dazed with horror, trembled like one mass as the tongues of fire struck at the cowering men and women on the decks, who, frantic with fear or driven to the last desperate struggle with death to choose, sprang into the turbid Mississippi. Skiffs and yawls, police boats, and cutters from the United States steamer Kansas, the City of Meriden and other steamers, darted out into the stream, and the men in them worked with unabated zeal and courage to save their unfortunate fellow beings. The multitude on the wharves, levee and boats along and below the scene where the fire broke out were wrought up to the most intense excitement by this fearful drama of life or death enacted right before their eyes. The crowd swayed here and there as one scene after another arose. The rescuing of first one and then another by the boats sent a thrill of joy through the lines. It was almost impossible for those having relatives or friends in danger to move a step in any direction, and as for the eager members of the press in search of information, all their perseverance, patience and strength were required to achieve any of the objects of their faithful mission. The course of the three burning boats after they got out into the stream was erratic, the John Kyle drifting down the river, and the other two moving straight across to Coyle's coal yard at Algiers. The Exporter was then towed down stream.

BOSTON'S BUGLER

A REMINISCENCE OF THE LATE NED KENDALL.

An old story of Ned Kendall, when at the highest of his popularity, nearly forty years ago, will be new to many at this time. It appears that a celebrated New York bugle-player had heard so much of Kendall's playing, and had had comparison of his own execution so frequently made with that of the Bostonian, and to the favor of the latter, that he naturally had a great desire to meet the rival performer, and accordingly visited Boston for that purpose. On the very day of his arrival, which was at the height of the sleighing season, he was invited to join a sleighing party, which he did.

Arriving, after a glorious ride, at one of the then popular out of town resorts, "The Punch bowl," "old Phoenix," or "Brighton," the party found that the ball room of the place was lighted up, and a grand dance was to take place by a large party who had arrived from Boston. The New York musician finding the bar room crammed with gentlemen partaking of the various warm and stimulating fluids, stepped into a side parlor to wait a better chance to do likewise, and to warm himself at the fire, before which sat three individuals who courteously made room for him. On the table near by lay a bugle, evidently just taken from its case, which lay near.

"Ah!" said the New Yorker, having warmed his fingers into flexibility, as he leaned his hand upon the table and toyed with the keys of the instrument, "Any one of you play on this?"

"Yes, I do a little," said a somewhat thick set dark complexioned man at the fire.

"Play for parties, I suppose?"

"Now and then, when I get a job," said the other, his eye twinkling; "do you?"

"Oh, I do a little in my way," said the New Yorker, with assumed indifference, and seizing the bugle he ran over the scale, gave half a dozen strains and pretty snatches of melody that brought a dozen or two listeners to the half open door.

The dark man opened his eyes wider. "You are an excellent player," said he.

"Oh, only so, so," was the gratified and somewhat pompous reply; "I suppose you don't go into much except dance music?"

"Well, yes, a little; I'm pretty good at imitating a thing I hear played once or twice," and he took up the instrument and played the same strains the other had performed, awkwardly and with a half dozen hitches and omissions.

"Pretty good," said the New York bugler, "but you want practice and accent, especially in solo playing."

"No doubt of it," said the dark man.

"Now even in dance music there can be a vast deal of ornamentation," said the New Yorker, warming up with a desire to show off his skill before what he thought an inferior player and the gathering group that the notes had already attracted. "Now the 'Fishers' Hornpipe' is a lively tune, but see what can be done with it;" and he took up the bugle and put the country dance through a series of variations that made the nerves of every foot, whose owner was within hearing, jingle with electric thrills.

"You can hardly follow that as well as the scales, I suppose," said the performer, laying down the instrument amid a buzz of applause from his now augmented audience.

"Well, I don't know about following anybody, but I may give you my idea of it," said the dark complexioned man as he took up the instrument.

If the first bar made the other player start, the succeeding ones transfixed him as the performer executed strains with a correctness, skill and beauty that he had never heard extracted from a bugle before. The variations, thrills, tone and melody of the familiar old dance were rendered into electric poetry as never before dreamed of, as they flowed from the bell of the instrument and beneath the skillful manipulations and never failing wind of the performer, who at the conclusion of his performance, amid a roar of applause, remarked, with the same sly twinkle in his dark eye:

"What do you think now?"

"Think!" said the other, as he stood with his eyes distended with astonishment. "Think! Why that no living man could have done that! You must be either Satan or Ned Kendall."

"Ned Kendall and no Satan," said the player as he grasped the other's hand extended to him.

THE OBELISK AT THE TEMPLE OF HELIOPOLIS

I have the interpretation of the beautifully sculptured hieroglyphics that cover two sides of the obelisk from top to bottom. The profusion of flattering words on the obelisk are addressed to King Ousertasen I., who, according to the highest authority, reigned 2,808 years before Christ, and during the period of forty six years. The obelisk, therefore, if the dates given are correct, has stood where it still stands for nearly the period of 4,700 years.

Herodotus says Sesostris or his son (both kings of Egypt) presented two obelisks to the Temple of Heliopolis, and that each was at least 150 feet high and twelve feet in diameter. As the obelisk now there is of fully one-third less dimensions, it is possible there were, in his day, two obelisks of greater magnitude, and not placed on the masonry of the temple, but on the ground in front. It is also to be suggested that the obelisk now there must have been erected in Heliopolis long before the university was erected by Seti Menephtah. And although the obelisk fixes positively that it is on the site of the ancient city of Heliopolis or Onoo, yet it does not determine positively and of itself that it was adopted as one of the obelisks of the university. From other surrounding indications it is probably at the very spot where the university stood. But as it was erected in commemoration of a panegyric festival and some 1,300 years in advance of the university erected by Rameses I., or at least the university temple dedicated by Ramesis I. and claimed to have been erected by him, its exposed part does not of itself alone afford sufficient evidence of the precise site of the university. The attention of learned antiquarians is respectfully called to the propriety of making excavations at the surrounding mounds and in the plain itself, where I believe little or nothing has yet been done to explore the site of perhaps the oldest city in lower Egypt.

During the lapse of thousands of years, insects fixing specks of dirt into the cavities of the sunken hieroglyphics cut into the granitic obelisk, have completely obliterated them on one side. But the inscriptions on both sides are believed to be exactly the same, because all other obelisks are known to be so, and the interpretation of the side which is legible (and which is now given for perhaps the first time in the English language) is as follows:

The Horus,
The life of all that is alive,
The King of upper and lower Egypt—
Cheper Ka-Ra—
The maker of kings,
The life of all the living,
The son of the Sun,
Ousertasen, loved by the spirits of the City of Onoo,
And of immortal life,
The golden hawk,
The life of all that lives,
The gracious god [king]—
Cheper-Ka-Ra—
At the commemoration of the festival of panegyric
Erected this obelisk,
He, who bestows the immortal life has erected it.

Even this obelisk, still serving to fix the site of the temple, shows that the vast surrounding plains have risen, by scarcely perceptible accretions, perhaps more than nine feet since its foundations were laid. Indeed, the plains of Egypt, and of Nineveh, and of Babylon, and of Persepolis, and of the Indus in upper India, laugh to scorn the utmost labors and contrivances of man to render his fame lasting or his grandest structures continuous. Even the pyramids and the hills from which the material was taken, must yet be changed and obliterated.—Wm. F. Shaw, in Overland Monthly for May.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The U. S. revenue cutter O. Wolcott, the Colonist says, is coaling at Esquimalt.

H. M. S. Rocket is expected to arrive on Victoria station about the 20th of June.

Mr. Drummond has awarded the contract for railway ties for the Vancouver Coal Co.

The government engineers are enquiring for clay at Esquimalt. This is another important stride.

The St. Thomas Journal characterizes the veto by the Senate of the Vancouver Island railway bill as "another nail in the coffin" of that august body.

A pack train of 100 animals started out from Yale on Friday of last week, laden with supplies for the C. P. R. survey parties. The destination of the train is Soda Creek.

Mr. W. S. O'Brien, the great bonanza owner, arrived at Victoria on the mail steamer to look after an opportunity to invest in coal mines. Mr. O'Brien's wealth is estimated at from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The California was to sail from Victoria at daylight Sunday morning with 60 or 70 passengers, about 300 tons of Victoria freight, and 75 head of mules and horses belonging to Wright, Blass and Martin.

Major General Ed. Selby Smyth, of Her Majesty's regular army, has been appointed to the command of the militia of the Dominion. Lieut. Colonel Walker Powell has been appointed Adjutant-General of militia, with the rank of Colonel.

British Columbia is being well surveyed. There are now in course of organization in Victoria four surveying parties, aggregating upwards of 100 men. These parties will proceed to Quesnelmouth direct, and will deploy for the season's campaign in the interior. They will be in charge of Mr. Cambie, Mr. Bell and Mr. Hunter. Two more parties will be formed in the course of a few days for the coast. These will be under Mr. Gamsby and Mr. Trutch, and will proceed to Bute Inlet and Dean's Canal respectively.

DOUGLAS COUNTY LETTER

AGRICULTURAL, MINING AND POLITICAL.

ROSEBURG, May 10, 1874.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Times are again growing lively, since spring has opened in our town, and everything seems to promise a prosperous season for us. The young grain is doing finely since the late rains, and as a larger area has been sown than ever before, we may truly anticipate an immense yield from this county. Many of the sheep raisers have already shorn their flocks, and spring wool is now coming in. The market price paid for wool is 25 cents, which is, we believe, a larger price than the market has opened with for some years. We will all prosper as long as the crops are successful.

Discovering mines seems to be all the rage in this State now, and Douglas county is not behind the rest. Several discoveries have been made which the OREGONIAN has already made mention of, but now comes in a new one which creates considerable excitement here. "Joe" Woodruff, an old trapper and mountaineer, has found a lead of ore—silver and gold—which assayed $120 per ton. It is situated near Big Bend, Rogue River, and about 30 miles southwest of here. A number of claims have been taken, and other parties are out trying to find the lead.

Circuit court, Burnett, J., convenes here to-morrow. About the usual number of litigants are on hand, also a goodly number of attorneys were present. One thing speaks well for us: that is, there are but two divorce cases on the docket this term. We challenge any county in the State to beat that.

The sudden death of George A. LaDow has again thrown us unexpectedly in the midst of a campaign. The Independents of this county are pursuing a proper course in the matter. They propose holding a State convention and placing in nomination a good man, able and fit to represent our State in the national legislative hall. We want no more Hipple Mitchell men or monopoly servants, but want to elect a person of honorable antecedents.

We hear the name of W. F. Owens mentioned by many Independents here as their choice for the nomination, as they think Southern Oregon is entitled to it, but all will abide by the nomination. L. F. Lane is also a candidate for the nomination by the Democrats. "Let us go in bravely to the battle," is the cry of Independents, "and with justice on our side we will not fail to win."

VICTORY.

SCHOOL DAYS.—One of the great Quaker poet's sweetest metrical gems, "School Days," is devoted to showing the regret of a brown eyed New England girl at having "spelled down

—the little boy
Her childish favor singled.

"I'm sorry that I spelt the word
I hate to go above you,
Because"—the brown eyes lower fell—
"Because, you see, I love you."

Still memory to a gray haired man
That sweet child face is showing
Dear girl, the grasses on her grave
Have forty years been growing.

He lives to learn in life's hard school
How few who pass above him
Lament the triumph and his loss,
Like her—because they love him."

Two surveying parties are fitting out at Eugene for east of the mountains to survey the Military road. The company who bought the land are furnishing the money for the survey.

PREPARING WOOL FOR MARKET.

Owing to the rapidly increasing importance of the wool growing interest of our State and the notice it is receiving in the great manufacturing districts, especially the New England markets, it becomes a matter of interest to the growers as well as buyers and shippers of the commodity to avoid the difficulties and as far as practicable remove all obstacles to the establishment of a good character of the Oregon product in those places where are to be found our principal markets of demand. This task devolves principally on the grower himself, in the matter of putting up his wool, so that when it reaches the general market it will at least be in a fair merchantable condition. We have the word of a gentleman who has dealt in and shipped Oregon wool in former seasons to a very considerable extent, that the majority of the wool growers in Oregon put up their wool in such a way that it makes it worth several cents less per pound in the general market than if reasonable care were taken in shearing and packing. Not only this, but all lots sold in a bad, damp or dirty condition help to make a record for this staple that it will take years of careful effort to get over.

A great deal of the wool raised in Oregon is handled, as we are informed, about as follows: The shearer, after shearing his sheep, generally gathers up the fleece, and with it, either to add to its weight or through carelessness, collects all the dust and dirt within reach, putting in the tag locks or filth that comes from the sheep, rolls it up, making a rope of wool twisted from the head, gives it one wrap around the fleece, tucks in the end, then thrusts it into the sack, and flatters himself that the wool is ready to be sold, and that he has done all that duty or his interest requires of him. Now this wool, before it is consigned to the manufacturer or commission merchant, has to be taken from these sacks and pressed into bales, for convenience in shipping. In doing this, three-fourths of it will get loose, the fleece falling to pieces, thereby exposing the dirty condition of the wool. Perhaps one-fourth of it can be got into the bale in fleeces, but in taking it from the bale the other one-fourth gets loose. Then we have a very unprepossessing article to show to a buyer; the only way it can be handled is like a pile of hay, with a pitchfork, and we can rest assured that the trace-chains, sticks of wood twelve inches long, and chunks of dry earth, harness, etc., (that were found in one lot that was brought here last season,) together with the tag-locks and filth, will all be on top of the pile.

If the Wallamet valley did not produce the best staple of any State in the Union, much of our wool would hardly pay the cost of transportation. As it is, it must be sold below its actual value on account of its condition when it reaches the general market.

Now, there is no excuse for this. It costs the wool-grower no more to have his wool go into the general market in good condition than in the way that has been described.

The proper way to shear and pack the wool so that it will bring the best market rates, is to observe the following directions:

In the first place be sure that the sheep are perfectly dry before shearing. If the wool is clipped when a little damp and pressed into bales before it gets dry, it goes through a sweat, discoloring the staple, so it will never bleach out white. Another thing; damp wool weighs more than dry, and a few pounds shrinkage in every sack disgusts the buyer. Provide yourself with a clean place to shear, a good barn floor swept perfectly clean preferred; caution your shearers about letting the sheep tear the fleeces; have a table convenient to the shearers and some good glazed wool twine; attend to the tying up of the wool yourself. Lay the fleece on the table, cutting off all the tag locks and filth; turn in the head and tail, and turn in the flanks and roll it up commencing at the tail end, tying it with two strings to keep the roll in place, and then with one string across the ends. This is sufficient.

A fleece thus tied is light, easily handled and examined and can be felt all through. It does not require a thorough examination to determine whether there is anything in it that is not wool. Wool put up in this way can be taken from the sack, put in bales, and taken from the bales and be in good condition.

TRUE FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

Not only has the flowing tide of immigrants to California caused the friendly press of that State to point the home-seeking families to the young State of Oregon and say "there is room and a goodly land for you," but even far to the East the people are beginning to learn something of the resources of this State and the advantages which she offers to those who are seeking for homes. The New York Bulletin, one of the leading and most widely circulated journals published in the American metropolis, speaks some good words for Oregon and suggests to the surplus laboring population of the East that "there is a fine opening for them in Oregon." It says:

> The East is overstocked with labor and the nearer portions of the West have more than enough. Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska are filling up as fast as need be, and they want capital much more than they do labor. California, also, is overrun, and the Territories have but little outlet for industry other than the mines afford. Oregon, on the contrary, is a fresh field. It is off the line of railroad facilities, and the great currents of emigration follow the railroad routes almost exclusively. It is because she lies off to one side that she has been neglected; but, now that other places are over-supplied, attention may well be directed to those parts of the country which have heretofore been overlooked. In a recent message to the legislature of that State, Gov. Grover says the great want of Oregon is more population. There are now in that State only one hundred thousand people. But with so slight a population in all departments of life and business, the value of the exports last year was more than ten million dollars. There is beyond question a brilliant future for Oregon. It is rich in all the elements of extensive and permanent wealth. Land is still cheap there, and a cordial welcome will meet every man who is willing to work and who goes there to make himself a home.

While the above is true as far as Oregon is concerned, there is one reference to the Territories which hardly applies to some of them though right as to others. Washington Territory, with her resources, is twin sister to Oregon, only of slower growth in population and municipal forms, but equal in advantages relating to the "outlets for her industries," having good harbors, a long line of sea coast, numerous bays and navigable rivers, and nothing in the way of her prosperity but the lack of more muscle and means to develop her resources. We thank the journal named for the good words for Oregon, and add our own for Washington Territory.

A GOOD MOVE.

In order to collect definite and reliable information as to the advantages which the several sections of our State afford to settlers, we know of no plan more thorough than that adopted by Acme Grange, located in this county. This Grange has had printed and sent to the different Granges in Oregon and Washington Territory a circular, containing the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The climate of the State of Oregon is generally healthful and uniform, the winters comparatively mild, the summers cool and pleasant, the soil rich and productive, the valleys set with native grasses, abundantly supplied with timber and good water, its streams abounding in fishes of various kinds, and for milling purposes it is useful; and

WHEREAS, The area in square miles is about 102,606, and the population about 100,000 persons; and

WHEREAS, We believe immigration is one of the great wants of this State, that the grange is a reliable channel through which valuable information from all parts of the State may be obtained, concentrated, disseminated, and conveyed to various parts of our country as well as to foreign lands; and

WHEREAS, We believe, were our State better known abroad, it would be the means of increasing our population by immigration, thereby improving the condition of those who will come among us, also materially benefiting the people of this State at large; and

WHEREAS, We believe it to be a humane, charitable and praiseworthy act to encourage persons to come to a land where crops never fail, where beggars are not found, and where grasshoppers do not destroy our crops, nor insects destroy our fruits; therefore be it

Resolved, By Acme Grange of the State of Oregon, that we request each P. of H. to furnish information to their secretary and master that will tend to represent our State in a true light, and forward the same in as complete, condensed and business-like form as is consistent with the subject in hand, to H. S. Davenport, at Portland, Oregon, that it may be remodeled and reduced to a desirable form.

The objects for which the information is sought is set forth in the circular thus:

1. We desire this information for the use of our State agent, that it may be used in posting immigrants as to the advantages of different localities, and their peculiar adaptation to different modes of agriculture.

2. That it may be sent abroad, thus giving persons an opportunity of obtaining a knowledge of our State by having information of a perfectly reliable character, from farmers themselves.

3. That it may be of direct service to the State board of immigration, for circulation by them, and assist in carrying out the objects of their organization.

Then follows a long list of about one hundred questions, relating to the various matters touching soil, climate, productions, prices of lands, adaptability to grain, fruit and vegetable growing, mineral resources, wages for all kinds of labor, schools, etc., etc. The questions asked, in short, embrace almost every fact upon which a person contemplating emigrating to a country could desire information, and, as the circulars are so printed that answers can be filled in with comparatively little labor by the persons to whom they are sent, we anticipate that Acme Grange, which is evidently composed of live, energetic members, will gather a very large amount of statistical and other information concerning the various portions of our State by this method. The secretaries of the various Granges are expected to fill in the answers to the questions and return the circular at once to the committee of Acme Grange.

In our remarks yesterday in relation to the important enterprise of the construction of the revenue cutter at the Albina iron works we were misled by the extract from the Alta, into calling her an iron vessel. We learn that she is to be built, in the main of yellow fir and oak of Oregon growth. So that though our mistake was "iron" clad the vessel will not be, but will be almost substantial and serviceable as though she were.

CITY.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Several days since we made mention of the disappearance of a Mr. Fisher, who, it is believed, was on board the Senator at the time of the explosion. Since then, nothing has been seen or heard of the missing man. His wife who is stopping with some friends along the Macadamized road, since the explosion has been almost distracted about the absence of her husband. She came to the city last week, and made inquiries for the missing man, but failed to discover any traces of him. The dreadful thought that her husband had been killed by the explosion, preyed upon the mind of the poor woman, and drove her nearly distracted. She told those with whom she was stopping that unless her husband returned on a certain day, she would jump into the river and drown herself. Those who heard the woman talk in that manner, supposed that she was temporarily insane, and did not intend to carry the rash threat into execution. But subsequent events prove that she was in earnest. Last Sunday morning Mrs. Fisher taking the youngest child in her arms left the house of her friends and started toward the river fully intent on destroying herself. A man who had heard her make the threat, fortunately saw the woman going in the direction of the river. He gave chase and succeeded in catching her just before she reached the river bank, and with considerable difficulty induced her to abandon her suicidal intentions.

BRIG ORIENT ASHORE.—By late advices from Astoria we learn that the brig Orient, while sailing out from Shoalwater Bay, a few days since went ashore. Quite early in the day, the brig, which had just completed a cargo of lumber for San Francisco, hoisted sail, and, with a favorable northeast wind, started to pass out to the open sea. Shortly after starting the wind died away and the brig drifted ashore. The vessel stuck fast on the sand, and for a time it was feared that she would prove a total wreck. By the strained position in which the brig was placed, and the rough usage she received at the hands of the waves, the butts were started, the oakum was worked out of the seams and the hull filled with water. A messenger was dispatched at once for Astoria to obtain one of the tugs with which to pull the stranded vessel off. On receipt of the intelligence the tug Astoria was sent to the assistance of the Orient. However, at the arrival of the tug, the brig floated at high tide. She was filled with water, and considerably damaged. Having a full cargo of lumber its buoyancy kept the vessel afloat and prevented her from going down. We understand that the Orient has been towed back to Oysterville, where she will be beached, the lumber discharged and the hull undergo the necessary repairs.

A BAD "SPELL."—A friend has handed us a letter which is worthy of publication. We give it verbatim et literatim. It is hoped that the writer of the gushing epistle got that girl:

TELEGRAPHIC REDUCTION.—Mr. Guild informs us that quite recently a meterial reduction has been made in the telegraphic rates by the Atlantic cable. The cable tariff has been cut down from $1 25 to 70 cents per word, between here and England and France. Between this place and New York the company will not make any reduction for messages containing less than 10 words—that is, they will charge as much for a message which contains three or four words as for one of ten words. The lowest charge for a message between Portland and New York is $2 50. Hereafter a message of three words will be sent to Europe and a proportionate rate charged. Messages of three words will be transmitted to London or Paris for $2 10—really at less cost than one of ten words to New York. Since the reduction has been made there has already been a number of European messages transmitted containing three words. That appears to be reducing the system of telegraphy down to a fine point.

WEST SIDE LINE.—For some time past the telegraph line on the west side, between Portland and St. Joe, has been in bad condition and messages have been transmitted with considerable difficulty. The bad working state of the line is attributable to the heavy wind and rain storms of the past winter, which have frequently prostrated it. It is the intention of the telegraph company to thoroughly overhaul the line and make it as good as new. Mr. Guild and several assistants will start out in a few days along the railroad on a hand car, supplied with an abundance of all necessary material and repair the line between this city and St. Joe.

MR. RIGGS IN PHILADELPHIA.—We clip the following from the Philadelphia Evening Star of April 20th. Our readers will see that there is every probability that our fellow-townsman will have the honor of making the old Independence Bell ring out as clear as of yore: "Mr. Daniel J. Riggs, of Salem, Oregon, presented the model of a patent appliance for repairing cracked bells to a special committee of councils to-day, who expressed themselves well pleased with its workings, and will recommend the use of his method to restore the Independence Bell."

ENTERTAINMENT—RECEPTION—The members of Portland Encampment No. 1, I. C. R. C., will give a public reception and entertainment at Good Templars' Hall this (Thursday) evening. The members of the various temperance organizations in the city and friends of the cause are cordially invited. The admission will be free to all who are desirous of participating. At the conclusion of the entertainment the hall will be cleared and a social dance indulged in.

HELD TO ANSWER.—John V. Smith, the engineer on the steamer Senator when she blew up, was arraigned in Justice Rielly's court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of manslaughter. H. Y. Thompson, Esq., appeared as counsel for the State, and Messrs. F. O. McCown and W. W. Page for the defense. The defendant waived an examination and was held to answer in the sum of $1,000. Smith furnished the required bonds and was released from custody.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, May 12, 1875:

POLICE JUDGESHIP.—Judge Denny being desirous of devoting his attention to other matters at once, the recent appointee on yesterday, filed with the auditor and clerk his oath of office as police judge and, with the county clerk, his oath of office and official bond as ex officio justice of the peace. He will immediately enter upon the duties of his position.

SENT TO JAIL.—The case of the three boys—William Riddle, John Dougherty and Luther Welcott—who were arrested on Tuesday afternoon, charged with larceny, came up for trial in the police court yesterday morning. Judge Denny found the culprits guilty, and sentenced each to the county jail for the period of 90 days.

STAGE OF WATER.—A dispatch from Walula yesterday says: Weather little cloudy; thermometer 62°; river has fallen two inches since morning.

Ambitious anglers captureth the reflective worm and hie away to the babbling brook for the festive sucker.

This evening the Board of Delegates of the Portland Fire Department will hold their regular monthly meeting.

The schooner Dreadnaught arrived yesterday morning with a full cargo from San Francisco. She is discharging freight at Flanders' wharf.

A new boiler has just been built at the Willamet Iron Works for the steamer Oneatta. It is now placed in the hull, and will soon be ready for service.

The wooden tenements at the corner of First and Yamhill streets have been moved away. Work on the brick building will be commenced in a few days.

Mr. John Crouch, the general repairer for the W. U. T. Co.'s lines, severely injured his back yesterday while endeavoring to lift a hand-car from the track.

MILITARY NOTES.

From the Spirit of the West of May 7th we collate the following:

General Frank Wheaton leaves on the 10th inst for his regiment.

The paymaster, Major Canby, will arrive at the garrison to-day or to-morrow from Fort Lapwai, and will proceed en route to Fort Colville. He will be accompanied by an escort from this post.

Company M, 1st cavalry, are preparing to leave this post for Fort Colville, and Company E, 21st infantry, now stationed there, will proceed to Fort Walla Walla as soon as the company reaches there.

There are over one hundred recruits en route to Walla Walla from St. Louis. However, all do not belong to the companies stationed here, but they will remain at the garrison for a considerable time.

Congress has presented a medal to Sergeant H. J. Hyde, Company M, 1st cavalry, for distinguished services rendered in Arizona under General Crook. We hope that more substantial recognition will be given soon to Sergeant Hyde.

We learn that some soldiers perish in the snow every winter in Montana Territory. This year a young man enlisted in Company G, 7th infantry, proceeding from the Crossings to Fort Shaw, lost his way and perished in the snow. The name of deceased was Edward S. Quigley.

There is a rumor current that the headquarters of the 1st cavalry will be removed from Benicia barrack to Fort Walla Walla. It appears that the stables, saddles, saddle blankets, etc., at Benicia were burned, and the horses burned, in consequence of the epizootic, and this is the cause of the change.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Note new advertisement of Everding & Farrell.

The firm of Eberhardt & Mast has been dissolved, the latter gentleman retiring.

Notice is given of the dissolution of the firm of Metzger & Steel, Mr. Steel having retired. The business will be continued by D. Metzger.

The celebrated Bay View House, at Unity, W. T., is offered for sale. A rare bargain can be had, and now is the time to buy, as the rush will begin soon. Note ad.

Special attention is called to the advertisement of H. W. Monnastes, who is opening crockery, glassware, etc., at prices greatly reduced, to meet the present demand. A fresh invoice of goods just received.

Mr. T. B. Handley, late of McMinnville, has opened an office for the dispensation of legal advice at the court house, Hillsboro. We wish Mr. Handley a full measure of patronage, and those entrusting business to his care will be promptly attended to.

PEREMPTORY MANDAMUS.

Mr. O. M. Barnard, assessor of this county, was served on Tuesday with the following peremptory mandamus:

Barnard, as assessor of Multnomah county, defendant:—In the name of the State of Oregon you are hereby commanded that immediately after the receipt hereof you deduct the amount of the plaintiff's indebtedness within the State of Oregon, as specified in the sworn statement of the plaintiff, furnished you by him on the 20th day of April, 1875, from the amount and value of the taxable property of the plaintiff as contained in said sworn statement and the assessment thereon made by you of plaintiff's property for the year 1875.

Witness the Hon. E. D. Shattuck, Judge of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Multnomah county, and the seal of said circuit court this 10th day of May, 1875.

GEO. L. STORY, Clerk, &c.

PICNICS.

The Red Men of this city will give their annual picnic down on the Bybee farm next Monday, 17th inst., if the weather clerk will only be accommodating.

We are informed that the Hibernian Benevolent society of this city propose to give their annual picnic in a few weeks. East Portland Park, it is said, will be the grounds selected.

On Saturday next, if the weather is propitious, the teachers and pupils of the Presbyterian Sunday school will go to Vancouver on an excursion and to enjoy the pleasures of a picnic.

The several committees connected with the forthcoming printers' picnic are busily engaged in making all necessary arrangements. If the weather proves propitious we hazard nothing in saying that it will be the picnic of the season. The printers never do things by halves, and whatever they undertake is certain to prove successful.

AMUSEMENTS.

The New Market Theater was only partially filled last evening, the occasion being the benefit to Mr. R. C. White, the well-known actor and scenic artist. The programme was carried out as per announcement and the performances of those who took part were loudly applauded.

This evening the Phelps dramatic troupe and McDonald's Indians are expected to arrive from the Sound. The combination will appear at New Market Theater to-morrow evening for the first time. We bespeak large audiences during the brief stay of the company in Portland.

The most stylish collar you can wear is the Warwick. Ask for it at the gents' furnishing stores.

The credential committee made a supplementary report, and gave notice that the following named persons were entitled to seats in this Grand Encampment: Dallas, No. 11—W. H. Rubell, L. Vineyard, B. F. Nichols, E. F. Bolter and C. W. Teal. Unity, No. 23—T. B. Handley, Miss Alice Handley and Miss Bertha Verstig.

The finance committee submitted a report in reference to the reports of the officers. On motion the report was adopted.

The finance committee reported in the case of Mr. A. G. Walling, and recommended that he be allowed $53, as the amount due him.

The committee on constitution and by-laws reported upon points of order referred to them, and after several amendments, the report was adopted.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, the morning session closed to meet at 1:30 P. M.

Afternoon Session.

Promptly at the appointed hour the Encampment opened in due form, C. E. Burrows, Grand Commander, presiding.

The committee on "good of the order" tendered their report, and upon motion was sent back to the same committee.

RESOLUTIONS.

W. P. Keady, of Salem No. 20, offered the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, The Grand Encampment of C. of T. C. at its last session appointed a committee to receive and entertain propositions looking toward a union of this order and the C. of R. C., therefore be it

Resolved, That this Grand Encampment appoint a committee of three on constitution, whose duty it shall be to report to this Grand Encampment a plan upon which the I. C. R. C. and the C. R. C. can be marshaled under the same standard, with common implements of warfare.

After a great deal of discussion upon the merits and demerits of the resolution, T. B. Handley, of Unity No. 23, offered, as an amendment to strike out the preamble to said resolution.

Upon motion the amendment was adopted.

The resolution upon motion was then adopted.

Grand Commander Burrows then appointed the following committee on consultation: W. P. Smith, of Salem No. 20; R. G. Hawn, No. 14, and T. B. Handley, of No. 23.

Committee on good of the order submitted the following report:

"Your Committee on "Good of the Order" beg leave to submit their report, and offer for your consideration one or two suggestions, which we deem necessary in the promotion of our noble order, throughout this jurisdiction.

During the year just past, the temperance cause in this State (and not only in this State, but every State in the Union) have accomplished a great work, a work that the united element of the great temperance army, have met and battled together, with a will and a determination.

Their works has been crowned with success. Thousands of the brave sons and daughters of our land have been enlisted into the temperance army. While other temperance organizations throughout this State, have met with flattering success, in organizing lodges, and swelling their ranks to thousands, it is with a feeling of regret that we are compelled to say, that our order in point of membership has not advanced to any great degree. We would suggest that steps be taken during the session, to secure if possible, the services of a lecturer for our order. The mutual life system in connection with the order should if possible, be changed in such a manner that will give better satisfaction to those interested, or be dispensed with entirely.

Companions, our labors for the present convocation are about ended. We go hence to mingle in life's pleasure, and life's disappointments. Let us go forth with a will and a determination to work and use our utmost endeavors to advance our noble order.

CHAS. A. WHEELER, Portland No. 1.

Spelling matches are all the rage now and there is no telling what may follow to occupy the attention of society. What attracts most attention in the vicinity of Front and Washington streets is the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN. The immense stock of spring and summer Clothing, and the marked changes in the matter of charges at this house is sufficient to draw large crowds to their store. Youths' clothing continues a specialty and fond parents make a great mistake if they fail to examine the stock at Beck & Waldman's.

SOMETHING NEW.

The new style of promenade photographs. These beautiful pictures are now made at Besco & Megler's new rooms, Nos. 127 and 129, First street. Call and examine them.

Minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communication was read and ordered published with the report now being prepared by the secretary of the Board for the information of the public:

ASTORIA, Or., April 26, 1875.

William Reid, Esq., Secretary Board of Trade, Portland, Or.—DEAR SIR: Your letter of 21st inst., asking information for the guidance of foreign vessels proceeding to Oregon, is just received. I would respectfully state that my answers to the questions asked are as follows:

First—What we deem speaking a vessel at sea outside the bar is running within hailing distance and asking if she wants a pilot.

Second—The tug considers five miles the distance to tow and pilot a vessel without other charge than that prescribed by law.

Third—If the tug goes any greater distance than five miles, and not exceeding twenty, she makes no extra charge for putting a pilot on board; but if the captain requires the services of the tug, after putting a pilot on board, she then charges extra towage, according to the distance exceeding five miles and the state of the weather.

Fourth—There are four pilots attached to the steam tug Astoria.

Fifth—At any time the tug Astoria requires any repairs, through accident or otherwise, the steam tug Brenham will take her place on the bar and pilot-grounds without extra charge to the shipping.

Hoping the above answers are satisfactory and what you require,

I remain, your obedient servant,
GEORGE FLAVEL.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

FUN IN BOOTH'S THEATER.

THORNE PLAYS A STRONG JOKE ON BISHOP ON APRIL FOOL DAY.

The best, most practical joke of All Fool's Day was perpetrated in Booth's Theater in the celebrated humblepie scene of the fifth act of Henry V., in which "Fluellen" makes "Pistol" eat the leek. The "property leek" ordinarily used is of wood, with green muslin leaves and a piece of peeled apple at the end. Some practical jokist entered the property man's room and substituted a fresh onion in the place of the apple (in honor of All Fool's Day). Thorne, who plays "Fluellen," took the leek and innocently handed it to Bishop ("Pistol") after knocking him down, and made his speech with the usual gusto, ending with: "Bite, I pray you. It is good for your green wound and your bloody coxcomb."

Poor Bishop, after the first bite, played his part with a pathos that moved the audience to the wildest pitch of merriment. Little did they or "Fluellen" dream how real and painful were the tears "Pistol" was shedding as he ejaculated:

"I eat—I eat—I swear;" adding in an under-tone to Thorne:

"Dann it, Thorne! this is no joke, this is a real leek." Thorne could hardly utter the next words.

"Eat, I pray you! Will you have more sauce to your leek? There is not enough leek to swear by."

Poor Bishop, still weeping and boiling with rage, went on:

"Quiet thy cudgel! Thou dost see I eat."

Thorne, choking with laughter, finished his part of the dialogue with difficulty, and amid shouts of laughter made his exit. Fortunately he goes off on one side and "Pistol" on the other. When Bishop sprung up and roared out as he rushed off: "All hell shall stir for this!" he brought down the house, behind the scenes as well as before the curtain.—N. Y. Sun.

The Statesman says: The present annual session of the Mute school at Salem, will close May 27th. Several prominent educators from abroad will attend the examination, and it is the intention of the teachers to prepare the pupils for a pantomime exhibition.

PORTLAND.

KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is still busy, disposing of those new and exceedingly attractive styles of summer suits. His recent visit to San Francisco gave him an opportunity to make the necessary arrangements for the shipment to his house of the latest and most fashionable suits as they should appear. Everybody who has had any acquaintance with Kohn needs no urging. You need a suit, or some furnishing goods, now, and Kohn offers you a splendid chance to buy.

Practice versus Theory.

The theory of disease accepted by physicians is, that symptoms are merely sympathetic indications of its existence, and have in most instances little or nothing to do with fixing its locality. Their practice, however, is diametrically opposed to their theory, for they administer medicines which affect symptoms only. The remarkable cures of dyspepsia, sick headache, constipation, rheumatism, general debility, urinary and kidney troubles, and malarial fevers, wrought by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, could never have been accomplished by remedies which addressed themselves merely to the removal of any one of the manifold and complicated symptoms to which those maladies give rise. Acting, as the Bitters do, directly upon the stomach and its tributary organs, overcoming their irregularities and endowing them with renewed vigor, they control, as it were, the springs of vitality, purifying and giving them fresh impetus, and dispersing all those harassing symptoms which proceeded from their misdirection or contamination.

A Startling Truth!—Thousands die annually from neglected coughs and colds, which soon ripen into consumption, or other equally fatal diseases of the lungs; when by the timely use of a single bottle of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY their lives might have been preserved to a green old age.

Justice at Last.

The public were far in advance of the medical profession in recognizing HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR as a specific for consumption, coughs and colds; but at last the Faculty are doing justice to the great antagonist and conqueror of pulmonary diseases. The country druggists generally report that the local physicians are prescribing it in preference to all the old pulmonics, and that the result is an immense increase in the per centage of cures.

PIKE'S TOOTH-ACHE DROPS—Cure in one minute.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. DR. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

SAMUEL ADAMS

THE FATHER OF THE REVOLUTION—GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS' TRIBUTE TO HIM.

I cannot speak of the New England town meeting without recalling its great genius, the New Englander in whom the Revolution seemed to be the most fully embodied, and the lofty prayer of whose life was answered upon this spot, and on this day. He was not eloquent like Otis, nor scholarly like Quincy, nor all-fascinating like Warren; yet bound heart to heart with these great men, his friends, the plainest, simplest, austerest among them, he gathered all their separate gifts and adding to them his own, fused the whole in the glow of that untiring energy, that unerring perception, that sublime will, which moved before the chosen people of the Colonies a pillar of cloud by day, a fire by night. People of Massachusetts, your proud and grateful hearts outstrip my lips in pronouncing the name of Samuel Adams.

Until 1768 Samuel Adams did not despair of a peaceful issue of the quarrel with Great Britain. But when in May of that year the British frigate Romney sailed into Boston harbor, and her shotted guns were trained upon the town, he saw that the question was changed. From that moment he knew that America must be free or slave, and the unceasing effort of his life, by day and night, with tongue and pen, was to nerve his fellow-colonists to strike when the hour should come. On that gray December evening, two years after, when he rose in the Old South, and in a clear, calm voice said, "This meeting can do nothing more to save the country," and so gave the word for the march to the tea ships, he comprehended more clearly perhaps than any man in the Colonies the immense and far reaching consequences of his words. He was ready to throw the tea overboard, because he was ready to throw overboard the King and Parliament of England.

During the ten years from the passage of the Stamp Act to the fight at Lexington and Concord, this poor man in an obscure provincial town beyond the sea was engaged with the British Ministry in one of the mightiest contests that history records. Not a word in Parliament that he did not hear, not an act in the Cabinet that he did not see. With brain and heart and conscience all alive he opposed every hostile Order in Council with a British precedent, and arrayed against the Government of Great Britain the battery of principles impregnable with the accumulated strength of centuries of British conviction. The cold Grenville, the brilliant Townsend, the obsequious North, the reckless Hillsborough, the crafty Dartmouth, all the ermined and coroneted chiefs of the proudest aristocracy in the world, derided, declaimed, denounced, laid unjust taxes, and sent troops to collect them, cheered loudly by a servile Parliament, the parasite of a head-strong King; and the plain Boston Puritan laid his finger on the vital point of the tremendous controversy and held to it inexorably—King, Lords, Commons, the people of England and the people of America. Intrenched in his own honesty, the King's gold could not buy him. Enshrined in the love of his fellow citizens, the King's writ could not take him. And when, on this morning, the King's troops marched to seize him, his sublime faith saw beyond the clouds of the morning the rising sun of the America that we behold, and, careless of himself, mindful only of his country, he exultingly exclaimed, "Oh, what a glorious morning!" He held no office but that of Clerk of the Assembly, to which he was yearly elected, and that of constant Moderator of the town-meeting. This was his mighty weapon. The town-meeting was the alarm bell with which he aroused the continent. It was the rapier with which he fenced with the Ministry. It was the claymore with which he smote their councils. It was the harp of a thousand strings that swept into a burst of passionate defiance, or an electrical call to arms, or a proud pæan of exulting triumph—defiance, challenge and exultation all lifting the continent to independence. His indomitable will and command of the popular confidence played Boston against London, the provincial town-meeting against the royal Parliament, Faneuil Hall against St Stephen's. And as long as the American town-meeting is known, its great genius will be revered. So long as Faneuil Hall stands, Samuel Adams will not want his most fitting monument; and when Faneuil Hall falls, its name, with his, will be found written as with a sunbeam upon every faithful American heart.—George William Curtis's Oration at Concord.

TRIAL TO THE TEMPER

A DANBURY INCIDENT OF THE SNOW SEASON

[From the Danbury News.]

We hope that with the passing away of the snow will disappear all temptation to repeat the disgraceful scene enacted on Munson street, Friday afternoon. As near as we can ascertain, the particulars are as follows:

Mr Robinson, who occupies the house next north of Merrill's grocery, was engaged in shoveling the snow from the roof into the street. During the work he heard a scream from below, and looking over the cornice, he saw a man with hair, neck and clothes full of snow, dancing up and down on the walk and shaking his fist toward Mr. Robinson.

"What do you mean by throwing your blasted snow over me?" gasped the stranger.

"Who threw snow on you?" very naturally inquired Mr. Robinson, there being every probability in the world that it was thrown on him several days before.

"You did—just this minute," asserted the stranger, most positively.

"Well, I didn't mean to throw it on you. How did I know you were there?" said Mr Robinson, feeling that the occasion called for some firmness.

"Why in thunder ain't you looking to see what you're doin', and not be flinging your snow all over creation, burying up respectable people?" demanded the stranger.

"Who are you, anyway?" said Robinson, raising his voice to the key adopted by the stranger.

"I'll teach you who I am, if you douse me with your avalanche!" screamed the stranger.

Both men were now talking at the top of their voices, being some twenty feet apart, and several windows in the neighborhood went up.

"What do you mean by talking to me that way?" screamed Robinson.

"I'll show you, if you come down here, you dough-faced guillotine," shrieked the stranger.

"Don't you call me names," roared Robinson, "or I'll come down there and split your head open with this snow shovel."

"O, just you come, just you come," screamed the stranger with the snow in his neck, going passionately through the motions of blackening a pair of imaginary eyes. "That's all I ask of you, you cock-eyed bed-bug!"

"Stop your hollering around here, you bow-legged reptile," yelled Robinson, dancing on the edge of the roof in an ecstacy of rage, "or I'll hammer the lights out of you in about a—. Murder! hel—"

And in an instant, the frightened man was sailing toward the walk, madly clawing the air with a pair of legs and a long-handled snow-shovel. The occupants of the windows sent up a scream of horror, while the individual on the walk gave one frenzied glance at the approaching spectacle, and turned about and fled distractedly up the street, shouting "Fire!" and "Police!" at every jump.

Robinson struck into the snow with a velocity that nearly unjointed his neck, but he was on his feet in an instant, actively [illegible] off the blows of an imaginary assailant, and crying at the top of his voice "Keep him off'n me. Help! Help! for the sake of my family, help me!"

Mrs. Robinson, who had been attracted to the door by the noise, came out and took him by the arm, and told him the stranger had fled.

"Gone?" quickly ejaculated Mr Robinson, looking hurriedly around. "Gone? it is well he has. I was coming for him, Merrill, coming for him hot, and I guess he saw it."

There are no new features of striking import in the local money market and borrowers who proffer first-class real estate security or prime commercial paper are still accommodated without serious difficulty. Rates at bank and on the street show but little disposition to fluctuate, as no probabilities are in sight affecting the demand which is now very quiet. The season's business so far has been done with a full degree of caution mingled with a fair amount of conservatism placing financial matters at this time on a very substantial basis. With the present outlook, both of the crops and the markets, there are no special features of discouragement.

The sales of Government gold coin were resumed this month for the first time this year. The amount to be sold is $5 000 000 000. The first installment of $1 500 000 was offered on Thursday of last week. A similar resumption occurred a year ago with a similar offering. The price of gold, then was 112½ against 115½ now. There is still a very good demand for gold at New York for shipment, and over $3 000 000 mostly in coin was cleared from that market week before last. The May interest is now being disbursed. These two causes ought to contribute to a large reduction in the premium. An increase in the receipts from duties is reported and it is now thought the collection for the next sixty days will swell the total for the fiscal year beyond the Government estimates. But in the face of these facts the telegraph brings us news daily and no reduction in the gold premium is noticed and the stand in the market we presume is owing to a sort of balance being maintained by the heavy disbursements and the active demand for shipment to Europe.

General Trade Matters.

Our merchandise market to day is exhibiting about the same degree of animation noted earlier in the week and though the period in the season is late the spring trade is kept up in quite encouraging volume with a firm steady tone to the market in nearly all the leading lines of imported goods. A good inquiry is yet made by interior merchants both in person and by order for selected goods to fill up depleted stocks an indication that the country generally has experienced a fair trade during the spring. The sugar and syrup trade as well as that in coffee, is quite active and the fair supplies in the market now against short stocks a few weeks ago account for some important shipments being made at this season. The staple groceries named are all firm at former quotations with no weakening but if anything an upward tendency in prices. Other groceries unchanged.

In the line of domestic produce we can learn of but few important transactions. In fact the grain and flour in the mills and warehouses along the river and railroads is well nigh disposed of and farmers are too busy to haul at present. Wheat is offering in occasional lots but neither millers nor shippers are yet willing to pay $1 per bushel, at which we are told it is held, and hence the transactions are very rare. Flour is being quite rapidly shipped and unless millers succeed in securing wheat or quit exporting we think the market may run short in a few weeks. The Ajax for San Francisco to morrow will carry a fair shipment and the Telfair for Victoria will also take away several pretty large lots including one from the Imperial mills of 1 200 barrels. Bacon is in fair request with considerable receipts at hand, the range of the market being embraced in our last quotations. Butter is in better supply and prices have a downward tendency. Eggs are jobbing at 18 cents per dozen to-day, but to-morrow or next day at furthest we anticipate a decline to 16c. Other products show no change from the figures in our last report.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamer Ajax will sail for San Francisco, to morrow evening, with freight and passengers.

The steamship Gussie Telfair for Victoria will sail to morrow evening with a full cargo, consisting largely of flour.

The barkentine Portland will go down the river to-morrow morning to St Helens where she will load with lumber for San Francisco.

The schooner Dreadnaught from San Francisco with a cargo of about 500 tons miscellaneous merchandise, arrived this morning and is discharging at Flanders' wharf.

STRANGER IF YOU MEAN BIZ HAVE A little money and are on the work we're the identical chaps you have traveled the plains across to see. What you say Home you strike our strong weakness. Right here within the sound of the church bells we have good land from $5 to $100 per acre. Remember this is within 4 or 5 miles of the Metropolis of Oregon where people wear store clothes, observe the sabbath, ride on steamboats and railroads, have spelling schools with a soil and climate not excelled for vegetables, fruits, cereals, hops and lumber, with a cash market and no fear of drought, ague, grasshoppers or crickets, no giant Indians to rob you, where we have telegraphic communication with Europe, Asia, Africa and Plymouth Church, where ministers don't have to take summer vacations, where we get a Brooklyn of our own, and where a Real Estate Agent is given a wide berth. Yes, if this suits you and you want to raise fruits and vegetables and chickens, and make butter and WORK, we can fill the bill. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, often renews the growth and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies hair, the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
